

I literally overheard two robotocists talking about the best method for injecting information into children in order to encapsulate, formalize, and mediate relationship to intelligence and knowledge. The field is strangely an art that seeks something eerie.

